Process Rationale	Process: In the middle of May and June I went to each school and had a meeting with each teacher who had been hired to work at Fraser River. I asked them what they felt would be a goal to focus on in the first year. There was a common theme throughout the statements: What do you think a goal for the school this year should be? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● School culture, positive school culture. Middle school framework. Collaboration. ● Team building – building team and community. ● Creating an inclusive environment. Encourage children to get out of their shell. ● Build community. restitution.

- Community – fine tune- tangible
Cohesively together in our community – a unit
- Building community of the school – respect – team building – building community for kids – priorities – what’s most important to us.
- Team building, staff and students.
- Creating a school community. Sense of community, sense of family, belonging. Come to school for connection and belonging.

During summer pro d all staff (CUPE and NWTU in groups together) worked on creating goal statements based on the above suggestions. Six statements were created.

Groups were asked to discuss their favorite and vote. We were able to narrow down to three statements. These statements were quite similar.

The team leaders and admin. Worked on the three statements and came up with one goal statement.

To create a safe, respectful learning community that fosters acceptance, engagement, and kindness.

A google document was created with the goal and two questions:

What are some ways we are and we can reach(ing) our goal?

How will we know we have reached our goal?

All staff are asked to list their thoughts under these questions. The document will remain live as we move through the year.

On November 18th one of the team leaders is going to set up a special event, to help build community. Now that the staff has had time to start working through creating goal statements and building community in the school, we want to involve the students in the process. In the afternoon, on the 18th, Large pieces of paper will be in the multipurpose room that have questions on them (like what would your ideal school community look like, etc). Each class will sign-up for a time (I will put up the schedule and send a secondary e-mail on the 15th). When it is your time, please go down to the multipurpose room and have your students tour around the room adding their ideas to the pieces of paper. This will allow us to understand the students' thoughts and will show us any common themes. On the 15th ideas will be sent that will be written on the papers incase you want to tell your class in advance so that they can think about their ideas. Rationale: We are a brand new school and there are teachers coming from various communities.
